18-19 Reflecting on readings

Reading out loud: a self-evaluation

HLT students read out loud frequently from their own and other texts. However, reading aloud has to be practiced. The self-evaluation form may help students understand what they already know well and where they can improve.

$2^{\text {ndid }}-9^{\text {th }}$ grade  20 minutes

Materials:
Copies of the self-evaluation
form (see below)

Procedure:

After reading aloud, students fill out a self-evaluation form. The fields in the grid can only be partially or gradually colored (from top to bottom). This self-assessment is then compared with the teacher, who suggests appropriate measures for improvement. Student who read very falteringly, should complete the exercises about reading fluency (see teaching proposal 22).

Read out loud:  grid for self-evaluation

Paint over those fields that apply to you with a light color!

| Reading accurately |  |  |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
| I read individual | I read short texts | I also read long |
| words and simple |  |  |
| sentences clearly |  |  |
| and understand- | clearly and under-  standably. I rarely  make reading  ably. | and difficults texts  clearly and under-  standably. I read  flawlessly. |

| Reading speed / reading flow |  |  |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
| I already read  certain passages  fluently, others  still haltingly. | I read mostly  fluently at an  even pace. | I read fluently,  faster or slower,  consistent with  the content. |

| Guiding of voice / expression |  |  |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
| I emphasize certain  words according  to the content. | I change my voice  often, according to  the text. This way  I can emphasize  important passag-  es, for example. | I can expressively  emphasize and  change my voice.  I use pauses for  special emphasis. |

